

Montgomery Negroes to Play Saturday

Montgomery is leading the negro Southern League which will have its local opening at Heinemann Park Saturday afternoon. Here is how the teams stand:

Montgomery
Knoxville.
Jacksonville.
Atlanta.
Nashville.
New Orleans.
Birmingham.
Pensacola.

On the recent seventeen-game excursion of the New Orleans team they met all teams in the league except Jacksonville. Fred Caulfield, manager of the local team, says the league is well balanced with Montgomery and Knoxville playing a little better article of ball than the others. He says he is sure that with the additions he is planning he will have a pennant-contending team. It was only because of sickness of three of his players that the Caulfields did not win more than five of their seventeen on the road.

Beginning with Saturday's game when Birmingham opens here the Caulfields will have a long stay at home and they expect to be on top when they go on the road again.

All games being played by this league in the regular Southern League cities are being played in the Southern League ball parks.
